The Clearing House has recently held a meeting to consider the expediency of admitting all the National ake into that body. At an early day the A-sociation will be given an opportunity to vote upon the question of stiling their balances in National Bank notes. The banks are obliged to take them on deposit from the dealers under penalty of losing accounts, and there is no good why they should not make their clearings in them. It would be very disagreeable to a few of the banks not under the National system to see this change made, but his is no argument against the plan. We regret that The Times does not agree with us on this point, and that raal of Commerce is disgusted with the whole an. Of course The TRIBUNE did not intend deliberately differ with these distinguished authorities.

at low rates, and there is absolutely no employment for the offerings in this form. After the 15th, from the payment of one year certificates, there will be a further large addiaken. Three per cent, and even lower rates may be sonably looked for. The income tax for 1865 will soon in course of collection, and from internal revenue the Secretary will soon be in a position to move efficiently in paying off currency debts. After Congress adjourns re is ample reason to expect a renewed attempt to fund the currency debt.
